CPR: CONFLICT PREVENTION & RESOLUTION:

All of us experience conflict at times, yet few are trained and equipped to either prevent insignificant conflict or resolve meaningful conflict. In this presentation participants will learn the PLAY NICE model of CPR to help them view, and deal with, conflict in a more productive manner. Wallflowers and bullies are both hindrances to an effective business – this presentation aims to minimize both.

FOUNDATIONAL PRINCIPLES FOR A PRODUCTIVE WORKPLACE:

This presentation focuses on the influence of perceptions in determining how we deal with others. Participants will learn to suspend judgment, along with other practical inter-personal skills. They will also learn the importance of making deposits versus withdrawals in their dealings with co-workers and others. Finally, participants will gain tools, tips, and techniques designed to diffuse tense situations and avoid incidents of “road rage” or “going postal.”

HUMOR, FUN, AND LAUGHTER IN THE WORKPLACE:

Which is worse – all work and no fun or all fun and no work? Your workplace can likely afford neither. This fast-paced, interactive and instructional presentation teaches new ways to let your workplace experience be both enjoyable and productive. When people enjoy their work, they tend to treat co-workers and customers better.

“Ron had a way of making you look at your own life situations with a different prospective.”

“He is dependable, honest and has the skillset to produce a quality product.”

“I knew Ron was going to make us look at laughter in our lives differently but didn’t know he was going to make us laugh so hard our cheeks hurt.”

“Good practical ideas to bring back to the workplace and insight into dealing effectively with others.”
